The Beat Farmers were an American cowpunk band, which formed in San Diego, California, in August 1983, and enjoyed a cult following into the early 1990s before the death of drummer and sometime lead singer Country Dick Montana. Their music has been described [by whom?] as an amalgamation of cow punk, jangle pop, roots rock, hard-twang Americana, country rock, rockabilly, and swamp rock

Federated Farmers continued their fear campaign today in a Herald editorial. Their anonymous demand is that "Farmers should know they are still appreciated". It is hard to have respect looking at bills that urban dwellers and businesses pay to fix their environment, while Federated Farmers bullshit about the environmental impacts of farming and how they don't like paying to fix them.
